A Legislator's Love of Lucre. Serving Sambo, Satan and Sanctity at the Same Time.

Through our Southern exchange, the Anderson (S. C.) Intelligencer, we are informed that J. Douglas Robertson, late member of the South Carolina Legislature from Beaufort, has been ignominiously expelled from his seat. Robertson is well known in Bloomfield, having been a tew years ago a resident of the town and a teacher in Mr. C. M. Davis's Classical School. Since the war he went South and became identified with the cause of religion and education among the negroes. By their votes he was elected to the Legislature. He is now compelled to "step down" for attempting to put up a pecuniary job in his own behalf. - He also loses the confidence and support of his colored friends through the duplicity revealed in his correspondence, in which he asserted his ability to purchase their votes with money. About a year ago he was one of a Legislative Commission appointed to select and recommend text books to be used in the State Public Schools. In that capacity he wrote letters to the other houses, proposing to secure the adoption of their publications, through his official influence, provided he should have from them the booksellers' commisthe appointment of his brother-in-law ble. as sole agent for selling the books, thus hoping to secure a handsome monopoly in the State. All the firms declined to enter into the jobbery proposed by Robertson, and it is from exposure through his letters of "true inwardness" that he a girl is a goose because she marries a has been weighed and found wanting. A Michigander. part of one of his letters to Brewer & Tileston of Boston reads as follows:

I know and can manage all the school officers in the State, and I will make it to your interest to althe work has only begin and a start of course the work has only begin and a start of much cheaper and easier for you than you can for yourself. I wish you to appoint Mr. Jacob Guerard being for your agent. State, appointed by the commission, to see this in-troduction carried out, and I wish a party here appointed with whom I can co-operate. Now if you appoint this party, as I propose, I will see that every influence is brought to bear to get your books kept in the State for a number of years. I will give my time and influence in the Legislature and out-side to control legislation and get your books taken care of. I suppose you can judge from what I have done that I have some weight here. I wish you also to allow Mr. Guerard to have a distinction of at after the first nine months, he then to have no sal ary for so long a period as we can keep your books in the State. This is necessary to keep an agency here at all times working in your interest. This agency will consist in Mr. Guerard and myself volto keep the book-list in vogue. The other booksellers here are not going to do anything outside of tween us and London. their stores, while we propose to keep canvassing the State pushing the books. There is every likelihood of my being next State Superintendent of education and if so I will have just so muca more

Ivison, Blakeman & Co., in their testimony by letter to the Investigating Committee, state that Roberston made propositions to them as follows:

First-it would be necessary, Mr. Robertson stated, in order to control the commission, that we should pay, through him, the colored members of the same for their votes. Second—After the adoption, Mr. Robertson stipulated, that the supply of books required for the schools should be distributed only a color of the schools should be distributed for the sch buted only from a central depository, which should be in charge of his brother-in-law, who should re-ceive percentage on all the books thus distributed; the clear inference being to us that Robertson himself would share in the percentage. He said that he was a poor man and did not expect to remain in politics very much longer, and thus wished to lay a foundation for the future. Third—Mr. Robertson stated that he should be the next State Superintendent of public instruction, and that he would use the influence of his office to force the books, thus adopted, into the schools. Learning thus definitely the details of his scheme, we declined positively to have anything to do with it.

Robertson, in the course of the investigation defended himself in a sanctimonius speech, in which he quoted Scripture copiously and maintained that the percentage referred to in his letters was to be used for the poor children. In conclu- wife had found his whiskey bottle and sion he said:

"I built the first school house that was ever built in my district and supported the first teacher we had to teach the colored children in it. And now, gentlemen, for this I am to be expelled; expelled because in my anxiety I wrote letters which the Secretary of the Commission and to the colored children in it. And now, gentlemen, for this I am to be expelled; expelled because in my anxiety I wrote letters which the carpet-bagging generally: "I express the sentiment of my people when I say that he is guilty. This man and such as he have done us immense harm and it is time we were getting rid of them. These men eat the cherries and its dissolution, then I say let it go. If Republican-tsm means stealing and robbing the hard earnings of the people let it be destroyed. All the jobs that have been put up for the last ten years have been put up by these men, and we get the blame." The resolution of expulsion was adopted by a vote of 56 to 25. The Columbia correspondent of the Intelligencer, referring to Robertson's expectation of being next Superintendent of Education be surprising if he is, as he has just the character for an office-holder in the present state of affairs."

Plymouth Church Scandal.

The New York Observer, speaking of the statement of H. C. Bowen to Plymouth Church, lately published in the daily papers, says:

"The document has produced a profounder im-pression upon the public mind than any statement or event since the trial of Mr. Beecher by the civil court. The circumstances he recites, the gentie-men whom he introduces, the letters of Oliver John son which he quotes, and the declarations of Jo-seph H. Richards, are all susceptible of examination to confirm or disprove Mr. Bowen's statement. By them he or Mr. Beecher may be easily acquitted or convicted, and Mr. Bowen declares his readiness to go before any properly constituted court and submit the testimony. If Mr. Beecher and Plymouth Church now desire the bottom facts in the case to be brought to light to the complete elucidation of the mystery, they have only to indict Mr. Bowen for slander, and the whole thing will be If there is anything clear as daylight in this wretched scaudal business it is the fact that Mr. Beecher does not wish, nor intend that the mysteries of his case shall be unraveled. Nor is there much probability that such a result will soon be reached. The late Advisory Council's proposition to inflict upon the community another farce in the way of a new ex-parte commission to hear and pass upon old or new evidence amounts to nothing beyond throwing a little dust in the eyes of those who will submit to be humbugged into the belief that investigation is candidly courted by Mr. Beecher. It is possible that Moulton, Bowen and Tilton, (since they are by this time well-accustomed to vituperation of the fiercest kind, and therefore cannot fear further damage), will embrace K. the opportunity offered, and again defiantly reiterate their accusations. But it is not within the range of probability that any of the other accusers, with their reputations yet unassailed, will hazard the persecution, the remorseless havoc of fair fame, which they must surely incur from the moment they get within gunshot | Fine and Heavy Quality, wool, as witnesses. The Beecher Bureau is today more thoroughly schooled for this scandal than ever before. Practised, influential, organized and equipped cap-a-pie for defensive warfare, it defies the world to bring on the next attack-and the next. Therefore, neither the regular conviction nor vindication of this remarkable man is to be looked for. But Appletons, Ivison, Blakeman & Co., and a conviction is taking firm hold in the minds of all those people who refuse to be cheated or duped-many, too, who do not like to acknowledge it, even to themselves-that Mr. Beecher's guilt, in sion of 40 per cent., also stipulating for all its hideousness, is well nigh indubita-

The agricultural department especially is one of its prominent features. The fashious are also regularly reported in its columns; and so are the markets of every kind. The WEEKLY Sep, eight pages with fifty-six broad columns is only $1.20 a year, postage prepaid. As this price barely repays the cost of the paper, no discount can be made from this rate to clubs, agenta, Postmasters, or anyone.

The Damy Sun, a large four page newspaper of twenty eight columns, gives all the news for two cents a copy. Subscription, postage prepaid, Sie, a menth, or $6.50 a year. Suspay edition entra $1.10 per year. We have no travaling agents.
